Discovering Harmony in Diversity: Inter-religious Community in Java

Overview

Institut Teknologi Sepuluh Nopember (ITS) Surabaya has been consistently maintaining commitment to develop science and technology with social and cultural approaches. Among thousands of islands, the Java island provides an attraction for continuing to be explored for its rich culture and local traditions.

This year, through CommTECH Nusantara, ITS aims to introduce the living harmony of the society which consists of multi-religious, ethnics, and cultural backgrounds. Java as the most developed province in Indonesia with more than 145 million people is well-known as the most heterogenous community in Indonesia. Various cultural and religious tradition are deeply rooted in the Javanese people with a harmony life. Therefore, this CommTECH Nusantara invites all participants to discover what makes them harmony in a such multi-diverse community.
